Report of the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization

GENERAL

The Immigration and Naturalization Service is responsible for the administration and enforcement of the immigration and nationality laws. For the Service, the fiscal year 1966 was an eventful one. After almost 40 years in which immigration from much of the world was limited by the national origins quota systems, Congress enacted legislation to bring to a close this system of controlling the number of immigrants to be admitted to the United States. After a transition period which ends June 30, 1968, all numerical limitations will be within a grand total of 170,000, with a maximum of 20,000 for any one country of the Eastern Hemisphere, and if not provided otherwise by Congress, a numerical limitation of 120,000 will go into effect for Western Hemisphere immigrants. During the phaseout period, unused visa numbers will be placed in a pool from which countries with preference waiting lists may draw. The fact that visa numbers became available and that new preferences were established by the Act of October 3, 1965, made the task of assimilating and effectuating the provisions of the new Act one of great priority within the travel control areas and increased the workload tremendously.

The elimination of the Agricultural Labor Act of 1949 under which thousands of Mexican laborers had been imported created a challenge and a problem for the officers responsible for preventing surreptitious entries. Mexican workers, cut off from the legal avenues of obtaining a livelihood which they had become accustomed to over the years, sought to enter illegally and thus obtain work. The political climate in the Caribbean area also absorbed special attention as careful investigation was made of Cubans, Dominicans, and others of possible subversive taint.

The examination of aliens seeking citizenship through naturalization and the recommendations to the courts for granting or denying such naturalization is also a responsibility of the Service. Closely related is the function of fostering citizenship education for naturalization. In 1966, the publication of new textbooks by the Service engendered greater interest in the citizenship classes, and proved to be effective tools for teaching.

TRAVEL CONTROL AND ADJUDICATIONS

Travel Control

The Service is charged with the responsibility of determining whether persons seeking admission to the United States are citizens or aliens, and if aliens, whether they are admissible under the immigration laws. During the fiscal year 1966, more than 197 million persons were inspected at the more than 400 U.S. ports of entry. In line with established Service policy, continued emphasis was placed on facilitation and efficiency of inspections in order to cope with the record number of arrivals, and at the same time to extend a warm welcome to visitors to this country.

A study of the feasibility of reducing the number of documents required to be presented to the Federal inspectional agencies by arriving international passengers resulted in an agreement between this Service and the Bureau of Customs for a combined entry/departure card and baggage declaration. The use of this document on a test basis will commence early in fiscal year 1967 at one of the major international airports.

A most significant step designed to facilitate the travel of visitors to the United States from Mexico was taken during the year. On September 15, 1965, the Service and the Department of State inaugurated a program for the expanded use of nonresident alien Mexican border crossing cards. Passport and visa requirements have been waived for Mexican nationals with border crossing cards who seek to enter the United States as visitors for business or pleasure. A Mexican national now need present only a border crossing card when applying for admission to the United States as a visitor, whether he enters for the purpose of shopping for a few hours or to visit anywhere in the United States for a period up to 6 months. The Mexican Government reciprocated by extending the validity of their equivalent tourist card from 30 days to 6 months. In another facilitation measure, simplified procedures were adopted for the inspection of Canadians arriving in small boats from Canada, and for the inspection of crewmen on Great Lakes vessels.

The implementation of these programs was an important factor in enabling the Service to cope with the tremendous increase in inspection volume without additional personnel, and with no detriment to the security of the country nor to the comfort of the traveling public.

Admissions

More than 197 million persons were inspected and admitted into the United States by immigration officers during fiscal year 1966, exceeding last year's figure by 6 percent and reaching an alltime high. Persons who made multiple entries at the land borders or as crewmen accounted for 189 million of the total admissions. The others arrived on 83,151 vessels and 236,798 aircraft. The number of aliens admitted exceeded 114 million, and, of these entries, 109 million were made by border crossers from Mexico and Canada, an increase of 7 percent over last year. Alien crewmen accounted for 2 million admissions. Other aliens admitted were immigrants, documented nonimmigrants, and lawful residents returning from temporary visits to countries other than Canada or Mexico.

Immigrants. A total of 323,040 aliens were accorded status as lawful permanent residents of the United States during the year, an increase of 9 percent over fiscal year 1965. Of the total, 287,270 obtained immigrant visas abroad and were admitted to the United States. The remaining 35,770 were already in the United States and adjusted their status to that of permanent residents.

The Immigration and Nationality Act was amended by the Act of October 3, 1965, which became effective December 1, 1965. Parents (who were removed from the quota classes by the 1965 amendments), spouses, and children of U.S. citizens termed "immediate relatives" under the new Act are not limited numerically. Similarly, "special immigrants," consisting of natives of independent countries in the Western Hemisphere and other small groups, have no numeric ceiling at present. Exclusive of these classes, a numerical limitation of 170,000 was placed on the number of aliens who may be issued immigrant visas or who may otherwise acquire the status of lawful permanent residents in the United States each year.

Public Law 89-236 amends section 203(a) by setting up a new system of preferences consisting of seven classes in place of the four which existed previously. The new first, second, fourth, and fifth preferences are allocated to specified relatives of citizens and lawful permanent residents of the United States. The new third and sixth preferences are occupational preferences, while the new seventh preference pertains to certain refugees.

During a transition period from July 1, 1965, through June 30, 1968, each quota area is to have a quota equal to that of June 30, 1965. However, quota visas not used during the previous fiscal year will be placed in a pool, from which visas may be drawn in the preferences and priorities established on a first-come, first-served basis.

The following table points up some of the effects of the new legislation.

The 320-percent increase in preference relatives over last year is due largely to the pool provisions of the 1965 amendments. Countries that benefited most from this provision were Italy, Greece, Portugal, China, and the Philippines.

The immediate relatives of citizens numbered 39,231, including 5,142 parents. Among the parents of citizens (for the first time not subject to quota limits) were 1,195 from China, 941 from Italy, 824 from Greece, 280 from Portugal, and 279 from Turkey.

Among those admitted with professional or highly skilled occupational preferences were 1,331 engineers, 902 professors, teachers, and instructors, 520 physicians and surgeons, 287 nurses, 251 chemists, and 125 technicians.

Other needed workers admitted under the old first preference and the new sixth preference included 613 tailors, 82 dressmakers and 51 technicians.

Nonpreference admissions numbered 53,700, a reduction of 26,728 since 1965.

Among the reasons for the decrease were: (1) nonpreference immigrants were required to have a labor certification to assure that they would not fill positions that could be filled by U.S. citizens; (2) the preference groups with access to pool numbers could use all the numbers allotted to a country, and leave none at all for the nonpreference immigrants who do not have access to the pool; and (3) immigrant spouses and children of citizens who, prior to the Act of October 3, 1965, often used nonpreference quota numbers to avoid the bother and expense of a visa petition, can no longer do this, and are therefore not using quota numbers in countries such as Germany, the United Kingdom, and Ireland.

Immigrant refugees numbered 8,803, including 2,456 persons in the seventh preference category who will not attain permanent resident status until 2 years after entry.

Among the 148,623 immigrants classified as special immigrants were 144,911 who were natives of independent countries of the Western Hemisphere. Seventy-two percent of these immigrants were from Mexico, Canada, Cuba, and the Dominican Republic.

Nonimmigrants. Aliens admitted to the United States for temporary periods are classified as nonimmigrants. Aliens who have occasion to make frequent entries, such as those who live close to the Canadian and Mexican borders or alien crewmen, have documents for multiple entries. Other nonimmigrants who came to the United States as tourists, students, foreign government officials, and the like numbered 2,341,923, thus extending the consistent upward trend by exceeding last year's total by 13 percent.

The following table indicates the various legal classes under which nonimmigrants are admitted.

Nonimmigrants admitted: Years ended June 30, 1965 and 1966

Sixty-three percent of the nonimmigrants were visitors for pleasure or what are commonly considered tourists. Two-thirds of these tourists came from countries of North and Central America and the adjacent islands. Europeans were the next largest group of visitors with the United Kingdom (143,904), Germany (67,883), and France (43,084 being the principal countries of residence.

Among the 201,358 aliens admitted temporarily for business enterprises involving dealings with American firms and business institutions were 38,024 from the United Kingdom, 23,084 from Japan, 18,244 from Germany, 14,504 from France, 10,459 from Mexico, 8,765 from Italy, and 7,063 from Australia.

Students and exchange aliens come to attend the colleges and universities in this country or to teach, or study, or participate in other exchange programs. In 1966, there was a 10-percent increase in the number of students. There were 2½ times as many students from Asia (13,384) as from Europe (5,171). More students came from Canada (13,490) than from any other single country. Of the 11,835 exchange visitors from Europe, 2,277 were from the United Kingdom, 1,428 from France, and 1,839 from Germany. The Asian total of 10,365 included 2,765 from the Philippines, 1,828 from Japan, and 1,698 from India.

The law provides that aliens may be admitted temporarily as persons of distinguished merit and ability, or as industrial trainees, or as other needed workers. In the latter group were 62,452 admitted under specific labor programs. Of these, 17,028 were Canadian woodsmen and agricultural workers; 18,544 agricultural workers from Mexico; 26,403 from the Caribbean area; and 477 Spanish shepherders.

Among the remaining nonimmigrants were 39,327 foreign government officials, 1,774 NATO officials, 16,369 official representatives to international organizations, 2,925 members of the foreign news media, and 8,628 treaty traders and investors. There were 177,827 travelers admitted who were transiting the United States destined to other countries.

Crewmen. More than 2 million alien crewmen arrived at U.S. ports during the year and were granted shore leave. The program was continued under which bona fide crewmen are issued landing cards designed to provide a means of ready identification to facilitate their landings. As of June 30, 1966, a total of 640,212 such cards had been issued.

United States Citizens. International travel of citizens also continues to increase each year. Citizens made 76.9 million border crossings, and more than 900,000 crewmen admissions were recorded. Other citizens admitted numbered 4.8 million. Of the 3.6 million who arrived by sea and air, 1.5 million returned from Europe and 1.4 million arrived from North and Central America, principally from Mexico, the Bahamas, Bermuda, and Jamaica. Other citizens included those returning from extended visits to Canada and Mexico.

Refugees

The following refugee programs were administered by the Service during fiscal year 1966.

Cuban Refugees. During the ceremony at the Statue of Liberty on October 3, 1965, where the new immigration act was signed, President Johnson declared that Cubans seeking refuge in the United States would find such refuge here. Negotiations were then entered into to provide for the orderly movement of refugees to this country from Cuba.

Prior to these negotiations only a small number of Cuban refugees had managed to reach this country during the fiscal year, but almost 5,000 refugees arrived by boat while the negotiations were being carried out. The negotiations were completed on November 6, 1965, with the inauguration of an airlift of from 3,000 to 4,000 refugees monthly from Cuba to the United States.

Acting in cooperation with the Department of State, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and other agencies of the Government, the Service established effective screening procedures for these refugees. By the end of the fiscal year, 26,159 had arrived by the airlift.

Refugees From Europe and the Middle East. The processing of refugee-escapees under the Act of July 14, 1960, known as the "Fair Share Refugee Act" continued during the first 5 months of the fiscal year in Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, and Lebanon. During that period, 2,631 applied and 1,723 were approved for parole into the United States. Since July 14, 1960, 19,705 refugees have been admitted under this Act. Persons from Yugoslavia (6,800), Rumania (5,194), the United Arab Republic (3,543), Hungary (1,744), and Poland (1,053) were the principal numbers paroled under this Act. The Fair Share Act was repealed by Public Law 89-236, which provides for the conditional entry of refugees under the seventh preference.

Subsequent to December 1, 1965, 5,320 refugees applied and 3,191 were approved for conditional entry in the seventh preference, and 2,456 refugees entered the United States. Also, 3,988 refugees who were already in this country were accorded the status of permanent residents under the provisions of the seventh preference. The effective screening procedures established under the fair share law to insure that the entry of refugees into the United States would not be prejudicial to the national welfare, safety, or security are followed in the case of applicants for conditional entry.

Chinese Refugees From Hong Kong. The examination and screening of refugees in Hong Kong for parole into the United States under the Hong Kong refugee parole program, begun as the result of a presidential directive of May 23, 1962, was completed. During the year, 846 applicants were approved for parole into the United States, making a total of 15,111 approved under the program. Between December 1, 1965, the effective date of Public Law 89-236, and the end of the fiscal year, 9,126 Hong Kong refugees who had been paroled into the United States were accorded status as permanent residents.

Inadmissible Aliens

Exclusion. The reasons for examination of aliens at our ports of entry are: to make sure that aliens admitted meet the criteria established by law; to set time limits for departure control of aliens admitted in temporary status; and to exclude those aliens who do not meet the requirements for admission.

Of the 211,416 aliens not admitted, 25,216 were crewmen refused landing privileges, 129 were stowaways who were discovered and detained on the vessels on which they arrived, 136,506 were in the border crosser category, and 49,053 others withdrew their applications for admission rather than go through formal exclusion proceedings.

Admission was denied 512 aliens after formal hearings and the issuance of orders of exclusion and deportation. In four-fifths of these cases persons were excluded because they lacked the proper documents for admission. Natives of Mexico, Cuba, and the Dominican Republic accounted for 335 of the 404 excluded for this cause. Ten were excluded on subversive grounds. Thirty-three with criminal, immoral, or narcotic records and 21 who were certified by the U.S. Public Health Service as mental or physical defectives, were also excluded.

Waivers of Inadmissibility. Congress has authorized the Attorney General to waive inadmissibility for the alien spouses, parents, or children of citizens or permanent resident aliens. Waivers may be granted to such specified relatives if the alien's exclusion would result in extreme hardship to the U.S. resident relative, and if the admission of such alien would not be contrary to the national welfare, safety, or security of the United States. In fiscal year 1966, 928 such waivers of excludability were approved.

Alien "defectors" from communism may be granted visas for entry into the United States if they can establish that for at least 5 years prior to their applications for waiver, they had been actively opposed to such ideologies, and that their admissions would be in the public interest. In 1966, 49 such waivers were granted.

Waivers of excludability for applicants for non-immigrant visas may be granted also, in the discretion of the Attorney General. After a finding that admission of such aliens would be in the public interest, 4,594 waivers were approved.

Adjustment of Status

Prior to the enactment of Public Law 89-236 on October 3, 1965, aliens, other than crewmen and natives of contiguous countries or nearby islands, who had been inspected at ports of entry and either admitted or paroled into the United States, could apply under Section 245 of the Immigration and Nationality Act for status as permanent residents without leaving the country to obtain immigrant visas. The Act of October 3, 1965, removed from those eligible for such adjustment an alien who was born in any country of the Western Hemisphere. Despite this additional restriction on eligibility, the Service received a record number of applications for adjustment of status during the year. This was due to the immediate availability on December 1, 1965, of thousands of visa numbers resulting from the provisions of the 1965 Act. A total of 52,714 such applications was received in fiscal year 1966. Receipts were the highest in Service history and were up 131 percent from the previous year's total of 22,814.

The new Act eliminated the former first preference classification for skilled persons whose services were urgently needed in the United States. In its place, the Act provided the new third and sixth preference categories. Included among the aliens granted a change of status to lawful permanent residents in fiscal year 1966 were 499 persons who were beneficiaries of petitions under the former first preference classification, 2,821 persons who were beneficiaries of the new third preference classification, and 244 persons who were beneficiaries of the new sixth preference classification. Also changed to lawful permanent residents were 7,020 spouses and unmarried minor children of U.S. citizens. Before December 1, 1965, the status of 2,866 nonquota natives of Western Hemisphere countries was adjusted to that of permanent resident.

Under the numeric preferences established for relatives of citizens and alien residents, 6,095 persons were adjusted to permanent resident status. In addition, a preference was provided for refugees, now termed conditional entrants and 3,988 refugees were adjusted under the proviso to section 203(a) (7) (A). Eighty-nine percent of these adjustments benefited Hong Kong parolees and other refugees from China.

Creation of Record of Lawful Entry. The Act of October 3, 1965, advanced to June 30, 1948, the date prior to which an applicant for creation of a record of lawful entry must establish that he has resided continuously in the United States. As a result, 41 records of lawful entry were created in 2,595 cases, a 26-percent increase over the previous year.

Other Adjustments. During the year a total of 2,359 refugee-escapees, previously paroled into the United States under the Act of July 14, 1960, were examined by Service officers, found admissible and accorded permanent resident status. Also adjusted to permanent resident status were 8 former officials of foreign governments or of international organizations and members of their families under Section 13 of the Act of September 11, 1957, which authorizes a maximum of 50 such adjustments annually. Other adjustments included 866 suspension of deportation cases and 18 Hungarian refugees.

Adjudications

The applications and petitions adjudicated by the Service deal with benefits under the immigration laws which affect vitally the rights of aliens to enter or remain in the United States and their activities while in this country. Many of the applications and petitions may be denied as a matter of discretion by the Service immigrant inspector or officer in charge who has jurisdiction over the applicant's or petitioner's residence.

The Service, acutely aware of the need to relate standards of basic fairness and the fundamental concepts of due process to these applicants and petitioners, continued in its efforts to apply these standards in all of its administrative adjudications. Service regulations which contain information affecting the public were further expanded during the year. Among the items published was additional information regarding the issuance and use of nonresident alien border crossing cards and the relation to these cards of the validity of authorizations to enter temporarily despite inadmissibility under certain sections of the law; procedure for filing petition to import aliens for temporary services or labor; listing of factors considered by the Service in adjudicating petitions for alien entertainers; clarification of regulations in connection with petitions which require certifications from the Department of Labor; information regarding waiver of excludability for mental retardation or past history of mental illness; provisions relating to oral argument in cases which are appealable to a Service officer; and the complete rewriting of regulations occasioned by the amendments to the immigration statute.

Uniformity of decisions continued to receive major emphasis. In order to place at the disposal of the public guidelines which would serve to demonstrate the basis on which decisions could reasonably be expected to be made in various types of applications and petitions, 48 decisions have been selected for publication or have been published during the year as precedents. Published decisions are available for purchase from the Government Printing Office or for examination at the principal offices of the Service.

The Act of October 3, 1965 (Public Law 89-236), which became effective on December 1, 1965, had great impact on the adjudications area of travel control operations. During 1966, a total of 855,369 applications and petitions for various benefits and privileges under the immigration laws was adjudicated by Service offices. This was an increase of almost 100,000 cases over fiscal year 1965. The striking impetus of the new Act on adjudications work can be judged more effectively when it is realized that the increase in the number of applications and petitions adjudicated in 1965 over 1964 was only about 37,000.

Visa Petitions. The Act of October 3, 1965, abolished the term "nonquota" and substituted two general classes of immigrants not subject to numerical limitations. The law now provides for the equivalent status to be accorded to "immediate relatives" of U.S. citizens, i.e., the children, spouses, and parents of citizens. During the year, 48,528 petitions to accord either nonquota or immediate relative status were approved, an increase of 48 percent over the previous year. The increase resulted, not only because of the inclusion of parents in the immediate relative category, but also because Congress indicated that any person who could qualify for immediate relative status should be admitted as such. This is in line with the legislative intent not to waste visa numbers. Thus, persons who are exempt from the numerical limitations on visa issuance are not permitted to receive numbers, which are conserved for aliens who are subject to the limitations.

Included in the total petitions for immediate relatives of citizens were 1,912 petitions approved for orphans, an increase of 24 percent over last year. Service offices abroad adjudicated 1,086 of these petitions on behalf of orphans.

The second class not numerically controlled is designated "special immigrants" and is made up largely of natives of Western Hemisphere countries.

The Act established other new preference categories for relatives of U.S. citizens. A new first preference category was reserved for unmarried sons and daughters of U.S. citizens (formerly accorded second preference). Spouses and unmarried sons and daughters of aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence (formerly accorded third preference status) are now accorded second preference status.

Fourth preference, formerly established for brothers and sisters and married sons and daughters of American citizens, is now accorded only to married sons and daughters of citizens. A new fifth preference classification was created for brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens. The availability of visa numbers resulted in an increase of 90 percent over the number of petitions approved in 1965 for preference relatives. Most striking was the increase in numbers of visa petitions for persons in the fourth and fifth preferences where the number of approved petitions more than tripled—25,888 in 1966 versus 8,250 in 1965.

The Act eliminated the old first preference for highly skilled persons and established two occupational preferences. A third preference classification is for aliens who qualify as members of the professions or persons of exceptional ability in the sciences or arts. For the first time the petition could be filed by the beneficiary himself, or by any person in his behalf. A total of 8,128 such petitions, including petitions filed under the former first preference category, was approved, and 812 denied after appropriate inquiry and investigation. Detailed reports were furnished the Congress in each approved case, as required by law. The Act also created a sixth preference classification for aliens who qualify as skilled or unskilled workers in occupations for which workers in the United States are in short supply. There were 1,689 such petitions approved and 266 denied.

In addition to petitions for admission of immigrants who will come under the occupational preferences are petitions for temporary workers. Petitions filed by employers in the United States to import, for temporary periods, aliens of distinguished merit and ability, workers in short supply in the United States, and industrial trainees amounted to 14,699 compared to 15,714 received the previous year. The Service approved 12,795 such petitions and denied 693 after consultation with other Government agencies, representatives of labor and management, and other appropriate inquiries. Importation of all foreign agricultural laborers must be preceded by approved petitions filed with the Service under the general provisions of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Other Applications. During the year, 265,269 applications by nonimmigrants to extend their temporary stay in the United States were adjudicated as compared to 240,964 last year, an increase of 24,305 over 1965, an indication of the continuing rise in alien tourists to the United States. Alien border crossing cards permitting temporary entry into the United States were issued to 186,788 residents of Canada and Mexico who enter the United States frequently. There were 13,217 nonimmigrants in the United States, who upon application, were permitted to change from one nonimmigrant class to another.

Schools desiring to enroll foreign students must be authorized to do so by the Service, foreign students or exchange aliens must receive permission to transfer from one school or exchange program to another, and students must apply for permission to accept part-time employment. There were 39,875 applications in these categories approved during the year, an increase of 8 percent over last year.

U.S. citizens who frequently cross the land borders were issued 11,926 certificates of identity to facilitate their reentry into the United States; 105,487 applications for reentry permits, extension of reentry permits, and duplicate alien registration cards were adjudicated, up 19 percent over fiscal year 1965. Permission to reapply was accorded 2,608 previously deported aliens and advance permission to return was given 180 lawfully resident aliens who otherwise would have been inadmissible upon return to the United States following brief absences abroad.

Aliens admitted to the United States to participate in exchange programs must depart and reside in the country of their birth or last residence, or under certain circumstances in another foreign country, for 2 years before they can apply for immigrant visas or adjust their status to permanent residents. The foreign residence requirement may be waived only when it is established that compliance with the requirement would cause exceptional hardship to the alien's U.S. citizen or lawfully resident alien spouse or child, or upon request of an interested Government agency. The Secretary of State must recommend whether the waiver should be granted and the Attorney General then makes the decision to grant or deny. During the year, 1,930 such waivers were granted.

Service Operations Outside the United States

Service officers stationed abroad continued to render invaluable assistance in detecting and preventing fraud, misrepresentation, and other violations of law, including counterfeit document operations, organized marriage frauds, and alien smuggling. Adjudication of various types of applications and petitions filed by U.S. citizens and aliens residing abroad were current, notwithstanding that the provisions of the Act of October 3, 1965, greatly increased the workloads of these officers.

BORDER PATROL AND INVESTIGATIONS

Aliens come to the United States through many gates. As we have seen, many millions arrive, are examined at ports of entry, and are legally admitted. Others who cannot or do not meet the criteria may seek to enter illegally, or once legally admitted may seek to stay in violation of the terms of their admission. Still others may seek to become naturalized citizens through fraudulent means. For such as these, the task of enforcement of the immigration and nationality laws becomes one of guarding the borders against illegal entry, finding and deporting those found to be in illegal status, unraveling marriage fraud rings, discovering the source of counterfeit documents, locating and apprehending alien criminals, and the like. Such enforcement of the laws is the responsibility of two coordinated arms of the Service—the investigations and the border patrol.

Deportable Aliens Located

Service officers located 138,520 deportable aliens during fiscal year 1966, representing a 26-percent increase over fiscal 1965. Dominating the problem of increasing numbers of aliens illegally in the United States was the major one of Mexican nationals seeking work in the United States. Sixty-five percent of all aliens located in illegal status were of Mexican nationality, and the number of such violators increased by 62 percent from the 55,349 in 1965 to 89,751 in 1966. The following table reflects a comparison of the violators by nationality group for 1965 and 1966:

Nationality	Fiscal years		Percent change
	1966	1965
Mexican.....	89, 751	55, 349	+ 62. 1

All others.....	19, 728	23, 845	- 17. 3
Total aliens found....	138, 520	110, 371	+ 25. 5

Status at Entry. Of the 138,520 violators of immigration laws, 44 percent had entered illegally, and the remaining 56 percent (78,062) became deportable after violating the status for which they were admitted. The number of aliens who made surreptitious entries (60,458) was an increase of 84 percent over last year and a continuation of the upward trend that has accelerated each year since a record low of 16,570 in fiscal year 1962. Ninety-six percent of the total illegal entrants were Mexican nationals, and 65 percent of all Mexicans located made surreptitious entries. Only 5 percent of the 48,769 aliens of other nationalities had entered illegally.

Since most of the immigration violations were created by an influx of Mexican aliens across the land border of the Southwest Region, it is not surprising to find that 81 percent of the 77,285 Mexican adult aliens were located within the 10 border sectors in the Southwest Region. In fact, over the past 5 years the number of adult Mexican male aliens located increased by 265 percent, and of these the number who entered surreptitiously rose by 353 percent.

The number of alien crewmen found deportable on technical grounds when their ships remained in port beyond the 29-day statutory limit was abnormally high in 1965 due to shipping strikes. This accounts for the 45-percent decline from 20,557 in 1965 to 11,347 in 1966. Willful crewman violations increased by 11 percent to 2,652.

The 62,021 aliens (other than crewmen) who were legally admitted and who violated their status of admission included 45,665 visitors, 3,883 students, 1,055 agricultural workers, 9,584 other nonimmigrants, and 1,834 immigrants. Excluding the number of crewmen who were found in technical violation of status, the nonimmigrants admitted who violated status represented 51 percent of the deportable aliens located.

Emphasis was given throughout the year to effect speedy apprehension of aliens before they had become firmly entrenched. Of the 127,173 aliens (other than technical crewmen violators) found in illegal status, 50,026, or 39 percent, had been in the United States less than 72 hours; 29,005, or 23 percent, for more than 72 hours but less than 30 days; 31,093, or 24 percent, from 1 to 6 months. Only 17,049, or 13 percent, had been here for longer than 6 months.

Smuggling, Crewmen, and Stowaway Controls. Border Patrol officers located 3,813 aliens who had been induced or assisted to enter unlawfully or who had been transported unlawfully after entry. This was more than double the number of smuggled aliens found in 1965. Violators of statutes relating to the inducing, smuggling, and transporting of unlawfully entered aliens numbered 959, representing an increase of 83 percent over the 525 violators apprehended in 1965. The number of smugglers reported in 1966 exceeds the number reported in all years since 1954, when the official figure was 1,822.

To locate the smugglers before they reach the interior destinations with their smuggled human cargo has been one of the major aims. Reports show that 204, or 21 percent, of the principals were apprehended in line watch, and 565, or 59 percent, in traffic-check operations, thus indicating the effectiveness of these operations. Most of the violations involving assistance rendered to aliens occurred in the Southwest Region. The alarming growth of smuggling practices in recent years is shown in the table below.

Service investigators completed 1,046 smuggling investigations during the year. Prosecutions of smugglers of aliens were successful in 371 cases, resulting in aggregate sentences of 3,286 months' imprisonment and fines totaling $18,850.

The facts disclosed in the following cited typical cases reflect the trend toward increased commercialism and larger groups of aliens being smuggled.

On August 26, 1965, Border Patrol officers in the Chula Vista Sector apprehended 5 smugglers and 38 aliens who were brought into the United States illegally from the Rosarito Beach area, Baja California, Mexico, in 3 small boats and were landed in the Mission Bay basin near San Diego, Calif. The aliens were met at San Diego by Edward E. Wilson, a U.S. citizen, and Richard Bruce Loughran, a Canadian citizen and alleged legal resident alien. A Hertz van-type truck to convey the aliens to interior points in California had been rented and was found in the area. The aliens were charged fees ranging from $125 to $150 for the assistance rendered, and had already paid a total of $740 to the smugglers, with the balance to be paid from subsequent earnings.

The smugglers were arraigned before the U.S. Commissioner on August 26, 1965, and charged with violation of 8 U.S.C. 1324 (bringing in or harboring aliens). Wilson was sentenced to serve 3 years. Canadian alien Loughran received an 18-month suspended sentence; was placed on probation for 2 years; and was advised to leave the United States and not return.

Jesus Alfonso Romero-Ramirez, a Venezuelan pilot for the Venezuelan airline LEBCA, was convicted on January 12, 1966, in Miami, Fla., of smuggling two Cuban aliens from Venezuela to the United States in a LEBCA plane. Fees of $300 and $500 were charged. The aliens were concealed in the plane's baggage compartment during the immigration inspection. Romero-Ramirez was sentenced to serve 2 years and fined $2,000.

Additional cases briefly summarized below reveal increased commercialism, larger groups being smuggled, and devious means used by smugglers to evade detection. Yuma, Ariz., officers apprehended 44 smuggled aliens being conveyed to Colorado in a cattle truck for a fee of $350 per alien. An El Centro case involved a U.S. citizen smuggling 22 aliens in a rented camper for a fee of $150 for each alien. In May, three smuggling cases were reported by Chula Vista at the San Diego Airport terminal in which case the smugglers were preparing to transport the aliens to the interior via commercial plane. A naturalized U.S. citizen smuggler was apprehended by Ogdensburg Sector officers in the act of smuggling three natives of Greece from Canada by walking the aliens around the port of entry to avoid inspection and picking them up a short distance from the border.

Continued emphasis given to crewman control and antistowaway and antismuggling programs resulted in the apprehension of 2,652 crewmen who had succeeded in deserting their vessels and 115 stowaways who were landed or were found as unreported on board vessels. Liaison and mutual cooperation with all law enforcement agencies and the general public played an important part in the Service's success in control of crewmen. The following incident demonstrates crewman control and liaison activities at peak efficiency.

Early on the morning of November 4, 1965, the New York office received a telephonic alert from Baltimore that six Chinese crewmen were believed to have deserted the M/V William V. S. Tubman and were reported to be on a train arriving shortly at New York. New York investigators immediately called the railroad police at Pennsylvania Station. By the time the investigators arrived at New York's Pennsylvania Station, the railroad police had placed watches at terminals en route, had ascertained that six Chinese males were on an approaching train and had pinpointed the very car in which they were riding. Immediately on the train's arrival at New York, the six Chinese passengers were located and identified as the deserters from Baltimore. That same day their land permits were revoked, and they were returned to their ship in Baltimore for deportation.

Complete effectiveness of the crewman control effort in the St. Lawrence Seaway was again demonstrated by results during fiscal year 1966. Officers of the Massena unit verified departure of 980 detained crewmen aboard 312 outgoing vessels. There were no successful desertions. The success of this operation during a period of rising desertions in Canadian St. Lawrence River ports is credited, in part, to the deterrent effect of the frequent appearance of uniformed officers conducting surveillance of vessels and scrupulous checking of detained crewmen at the locks. In one attempted desertion during the year, a German crewman reported missing by the ship's captain was quickly located in downtown Ogdensburg. When the crewman declared his intention of remaining ashore, he was returned to the vessel and ordered detained on board.

Air Operations. The use of observation aircraft continued to be a valuable adjunct to mobile ground units in ferreting out illegal aliens walking through the desert and mountainous terrain adjacent to the border and also in locating groups of aliens employed in agriculture and industry. During the year, use of the aircraft is credited with locating 8,075 deportable aliens, exceeding the 1965 figure by 69 percent.

A typical example of the effective use of observation aircraft is the smuggling case reported above involving aliens smuggled into the Mission Bay area by boat from Mexico. These boats were sighted and kept under surveillance by Service aircraft as they journeyed northward along the Pacific Coast proceeding to their ultimate point of landing.

During the year, transport aircraft logged 5,146 flight-hours and 22,825,589 passenger-miles without incident. Of the total 19,740,792 passenger-miles accrued in carrying aliens from all parts of the United States to and between staging areas on the Mexican border for expulsion to Mexico by air, train, or local departure at border points. In addition, 3,134,797 passenger-miles were logged in conveying prisoners for the Bureau of Prisons.

In view of the increased illegal entries encountered this year, use of the Leon airlift and Presidio-Ojinaga trainlift was also increased to remove more illegal adult Mexican male aliens into the interior of Mexico nearer their homes. During the year, 15,057 aliens were airlifted to Leon, Guanajuato, Mexico, as compared to 9,720 aliens in fiscal year 1965. The regular Matamoras-Leon flights were supplemented by flights conveying 6,600 aliens from Mexicali to Leon and 900 from Juarez to Leon. As of the close of the fiscal year, 81,078 aliens have been airlifted to Leon since the inception of the program on November 29, 1957. The number removed via the Presidio-Ojinaga trainlift to Chihuahua City, Chihuahua, Mexico, increased by 133 percent, from 14,822 in fiscal year 1965 to 34,583 in fiscal year 1966. By June 30, 1966, 107,939 aliens had been removed by train to Chihuahua.

The effectiveness of these programs is demonstrated by the fact that during fiscal year 1966 only 4,803 or 4 percent of the previously bus- and trainlifted aliens and 2,331 or 3 percent of the aliens airlifted had returned illegally and been apprehended again.

Cooperation With Other Law Enforcement Agencies. Effectiveness of an active program of mutual cooperation with other agencies as a means of extending the influence of each Border Patrol officer is well established. Officers represented the Service at regular meetings of organizations whose membership included officers of city, county, State, and Federal law enforcement agencies and representatives of various agencies in Canada and Mexico. Other agencies delivered to our officers 6,900 violators of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 55 percent more than the 4,452 turned over to our officers during fiscal 1965. Border Patrol officers, incident to performing their duties, arrested and released to appropriate agencies 740 violators of other laws. Coincidental to the apprehension of such violators, Border Patrol officers seized and recovered merchandise, narcotics, and property having a total value of $473,407. The value of all narcotics seized amounted to $382,185. Some typical cases of other law violators apprehended follow.

Officers at the Oceanside, Calif., checkpoint apprehended a resident Mexican alien in possession of 100 pounds of marijuana valued at $100,000, which he concealed above the springs in the back seat of the automobile. At the Campo Station early in October 1965, officers arrested 3 U.S. citizens at a traffic checkpoint, and seized 37 bricks of marijuana. Later in the same month, officers at the same station encountered four U.S. citizens with 50 pounds of marijuana. The combined value of both seizures was $39,500.

Canadian alien Conrad Brunelle, wanted for armed robbery of a postal truck in Richmond, Quebec, Canada, was apprehended by a patrol inspector at the airport at Massena, N.Y., after he had made inquiries about air transportation to Minnesota and Mexico. At the time of his arrest, he had $2,300 in cash of an alleged $7,000 in cash stolen from the mailtruck. Inquiry established that he has been linked with organized crime in Canada as a pusher of counterfeit money. His convictions for crimes in Canada date back to 1942.

In the area of community relations, officers of the Van Buren Station, Maine, on July 26, 1965, were requested to make an emergency delivery of a rare-type blood from Loring Air Force Base to the hospital in Edmundston, New Brunswick, Canada, some 60 miles distant. The officers delivered the blood in time to save the life of a man who had been injured. The pilot of a Border Patrol plane at El Paso, returning from a patrol flight on October 22, 1965, spotted a child about 5 years of age walking in the desert about 20 miles west of El Paso. Through radio contact with a patrol vehicle, the child was picked up and returned to his family, who live in Mexico about 30 miles southwest of Juarez, Mexico.

In September, following the devastation left by a hurricane which hit the New Orleans, La., area, officers of the sector assisted in rescue work, transported food and water to disaster shelters, and assisted the local law enforcement officers in various ways.

Foreign-Born Law Violators

Caribbean Program and Problems. The Service Caribbean investigations coordination program and related indexes maintained at Miami, Fla., continued to be very valuable investigative instruments in keeping Latin American subversive, criminal, immoral, and narcotic aliens out of the United States. These indexes were especially helpful in screening out subversives from among the thousands of Cubans attempting to enter via the refugee airlift and sealift. Of 150,000 index checks made, 7,000 relating records were located. As a result, 300 subversive and 101 criminal, immoral, or narcotic investigations were initiated.

An example of the effectiveness of the index is the case of Luis Romero-Toledo, a native and citizen of Cuba who had been admitted to the United States for permanent residence in 1950, but 3 years later was deported to Cuba because of prior membership in the Cuban Communist Party. In January 1962, and again on December 13, 1965, he applied for admission as a refugee. In both instances, checks of the index revealed his prior record and background. On May 17, 1966, he was ordered excluded and deported because of his Communist Party membership in Cuba.

Another Cuban, Armando Redondo Montalvo, arrived as a stowaway at Philadelphia on May 11, 1966, and was ordered detained on board. The Caribbean index reflected him to be a Cuban Communist. He had previously attempted to enter the United States at Brownsville, Tex., and was refused, and subsequently entered illegally at Chula Vista, California., and was apprehended and returned to Mexico.

There were 656 investigations of Cubans conducted during the year, including 304 allegedly of the subversive class and 77 alleged to be of the criminal, immoral, and narcotic classes. Among the Cubans deported as a result of these investigations was Celestino Fernandez-Suarez, a Cuban Communist, who was excluded from the United States in 1962, but entered clandestinely at Hidalgo, Tex., on February 26, 1966. He was found in New York City and deported from there to Honduras on April 13, 1966.

Several false claims to Cuban refugee status were exposed. Rene Reyes-Leyva and Francisco Menendez-Herrera, alleged Cuban refugees who had been residing in the United States, were intercepted attempting to reenter the United States at Trout River, N.Y., on September 10, 1966, as U.S. citizens, following a visit to the Cuban Consulate in Montreal, Canada. The vehicle in which they attempted to reenter had written on the side of it in the Spanish language, "Viva Cuba. Abaje el Imperialismo Yankee." (Live Cuba. Down with the Imperialist Yankee.) They were paroled into the United States for prosecution for false claim to U.S. citizenship, on which charge they were convicted in Federal court at Syracuse, N. Y., and sentenced to 3 months' imprisonment. They were returned to Canada on February 14, 1966.

As an aftermath of the 1965 Dominican crisis, investigations of alleged subversive Dominicans were intensified. Results of these investigations included the departure from the United States of the following Dominican revolutionaries: Washington Anibal de Pena y Pena, an alleged Communist, who departed from San Juan, P.R., on September 5, 1965, while under deportation proceedings; Santana Elias Belliard-Frias, an alleged functionary of the Marxist-Leninist Communist Party in New York City, who departed for the Dominican Republic on February 3, 1966, while under investigation at New York City; Clara Yocasta Brugal-Mena, 14th of June Movement functionary at New York City, who was required to depart on February 9, 1966; Cesar Arias-Otero, who allegedly engaged in pro-Castro propaganda activities in New York City and was required to depart from the United States on October 8, 1965; Rinaldo Alberto Aquino-Inoa, who was mentioned adversely in testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, and was required to depart on August 30, 1965; Angelo Antonio Elmudesi-Porcella, Dominican attorney who participated in anti-United States demonstrations in New York City and was required to depart on September 9, 1965; Marcelo Felipe Bermudez-Estrella, a functionary of the pro-Communist 14th of June Movement, who was apprehended at New York City on August 16, 1965, and departed from the United States at San Juan, P.R., on September 15, 1965, while under deportation proceedings.

Internal Security and the Foreign Born. The Service continued its effective antisubversive investigative program aimed at promptly detecting and identifying foreign-born subversives and thereafter providing the necessary evidence for denying them the benefits of naturalization or adjustment of status or excluding, deporting, or denaturalizing them.

Investigations under the border program resulted in the exclusion of several important subversive aliens, including Jacinto Lopez-Moreno, a Sonora, Mexico, State congressman and an alleged Communist; Gilberto Aguilar-Ojeda, who claimed to be a government official when applying for admission at San Ysidro, Calif., on April 29, 1966; Cosme Rico-Ruiz, who claimed to be a teacher from the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, when applying for admission at El Paso, Tex., on April 8, 1966; Ruben Vizcaino-Valencia, who claimed to be an official of the municipal government of Tijuana, Mexico, when applying for admission at San Ysidro, Calif.; Eutemio Grijalva Bernal, who claimed to be a Mexican Federal Post Office employee when attempting to enter the United States at El Paso, Tex., on December 5, 1965.

Continued special attention was given to the problem of aliens of the subversive class of Asiatic origin. Alleged subversive aliens from the Orient required to depart following Service investigations included: Yee Sun Jok, a Chinese who entered the United States by falsely claiming to be a U.S. citizen. He became affiliated with the New York City pro-Communist Chinese publication "China Daily News," and departed from the United States on March 1, 1966; Vinsong Men, a Cambodian student at the California State College at Los Angeles, Calif., who was cited in a 1959 House Un-American Activities Committee hearing, departed from the United States; and Takashi Tanaka, a Japanese treaty trader alleged to have been involved in Communist activities in Japan, departed from the United States on March 11, 1966.

Among others required to depart from the United States following a Service investigation was Ali Mohamed Yahya, a Tanzanian revolutionary and general secretary of the "Pan African Students Organization in the Americas," who departed from New York City on November 9, 1965.

Foreign Born of the Criminal Classes. In the field of anticrime and antiracketeering, 8,262 investigations involving aliens of the criminal, immoral, and narcotic classes were completed during the year.

The following are specific examples of individual cases handled under this program.

Andrea Bussa, wanted by Italian police authorities for theft, assault, and the attempted murder of a police officer, was reported by Interpol to have fled to the United States. On February 9, 1966, he was apprehended in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he was residing under an alias. He had gone from Italy to Germany to Canada and then to the United States, effecting a surreptitious entry near Champlain, N.Y., around May 6, 1964. Following a hearing in deportation proceedings, he was deported to Italy on February 24, 1966, and turned over to waiting Italian authorities.

Alfonso Schembri, a native of Italy and an associate of racketeers, in Tucson, Ariz., who had been convicted in Los Angeles on bogus check charges, was deported to Italy on October 1, 1965. He had previously gained entry into Canada, and from there into the United States by obtaining false documentation showing birth in Brazil.

Antonino Mangiameli, a native of Corleone, Italy, entered the United States as a nonimmigrant visitor and attempted to effect an adjustment of status to that of permanent resident. Subsequently, Italian law enforcement authorities advised a warrant for his arrest had been issued in Palermo, Italy, charging him with complicity in the murders of one Luciano Riggio and 10 other persons in Italy. Mangiameli, apprehended in New York, N.Y., by Service investigators, was ordered deported on March 18, 1966, and his subsequent appeal to the Board of Immigration Appeals was dismissed. On June 22, 1966, he was deported to Italy where he was taken into custody by Italian police authorities on arrival at Rome.

Programs aimed at the control of border criminal activity and the identification of alien criminals likely to attempt entry into the United States continued during the year with close liaison between Service officers and law enforcement officials in Canada and Mexico. The following cases are indicative of efforts made in the border programs.

Ronald Dale Haas, a subject of the Service's anticriminal and antiracketeer program—Canadian border, was found to have disappeared from Canada and was reported to be in Miami, Fla., in January 1966. Service and local authorities were alerted. He ran afoul of police in Clearwater, Fla., who were investigating hotel burglaries, and he was promptly identified by Service officers. He was charged with violation of 8 U.S.C. 1326 (illegal reentry) in view of a previous deportation and held on $10,000 bond. Deportation proceedings were also initiated. Haas' extensive criminal record in Canada includes convictions for theft, shopbreaking, and possession of stolen goods. He is an accomplished safeblower and a professional gambler. On June 3, 1966, he entered a plea of guilty to the illegal reentry charge and on June 10, 1966, he was sentenced to a year in prison. Deportation to Canada is expected to follow upon completion of the prison sentence.

Roger Marentette, a citizen of Canada who has been wanted since 1962 by Canadian authorities for fraud and forgery in the amount of $300,000, was apprehended in Dallas, Tex., on October 7, 1965, as a result of information developed through the Service Canadian border CIN program. On October 11, 1965, he was returned to Canada under safeguards and relinquished to the custody of provincial police. When located in Dallas, Tex., Marentette was operating the National Pension Funds Investment Company.

The identification, apprehension, and deportation of Latin American criminals, who have specialized in large-scale pickpocketing and shoplifting on an organized basis, has been another field of active endeavor. Their activity has resulted in heavy losses to individuals and business enterprises each year. When arrested, they use false identities and post the small bonds required to gain release before proper identification can be made. They are then free to continue their operations. Special procedures providing for rapid fingerprint checks have met with outstanding success in obtaining quick identification of the criminals, thereby enabling the Service to take custody immediately upon their release by local authorities.

Frauds. Completion of 3,821 immigration fraud investigations during the last year exposed numerous schemes to circumvent the immigration laws.

Many of these investigations involved inquiry into criminal conspiracies between aliens and other persons who, for high fees, provided the aliens with the documentation needed to circumvent quota and other restrictions embodied in the immigration statutes. Other schemes involved "sham" marriages to U.S. citizens to evade quota restrictions or labor certification requirements, or to gain immediate relative or special immigrant status, and the use of fraudulent or altered passports and immigration documents.

the "brides" were paid $300 to $500. After trial on the first indictment, six were found guilty. Four have been sentenced and two are awaiting sentencing. Further trial is being awaited on the second indictment.

An example is the case of Amadeo Luciano-Santelises, operator of the Union Travel Agency, New York City, who, with an associate, pleaded guilty to 18 counts of an indictment charging them with conspiracy to make false statements and certifications in connection with applications for visa petitions and other Service benefits. On January 28, 1966, both were placed on probation for 1 year. As a result of the convictions, deportation proceedings were instituted against Luciano, and his associate's notarial commission was revoked.

In another case, 8 persons were indicted January 21, 1966, and March 25, 1966, on 28 counts for arranging "sham" marriages between Greek alien crewmen and U.S. citizens to evade quota restrictions of the immigration laws. The alien grooms paid fees of up to $1,000 each from which

During the last year, 43 aliens from the Dominican Republic were found at San Juan, P.R., with altered passports and/or nonimmigrant visas reflecting an increasing trend to this fraud. The most common alterations involved photograph substitution or actual alterations of nonimmigrant visas. Investigations revealed the price of the altered documents varied from $25 to $300 and the sources of the altered documents to be various individuals operating near U.S. visa-issuing offices in the Dominican Republic. The cases of the aliens located are being presented to the United States Attorney for consideration of prosecution, that matter being disposed of before their departures are effected. All Service officers have been alerted to give Dominican passports the most careful scrutiny and close liaison is being maintained with the Department of State on a local and seat-of-government level.

The workload at the Fraudulent Document Center again exceeded that of previous years. At the end of the fiscal year, there were 12,699 cases on file relating to Mexican aliens who attempted to use documents to support false claims to U.S. citizenship as compared to 10,752 in fiscal year 1965 to 2,401 in fiscal year 1966. Positive responses in 373, or 15 percent, of the cases were furnished the inquiring offices.

The number of false claims to citizenship encountered by the Border Patrol increased for the fifth consecutive year, from 1,293 in fiscal year 1965 to 1,385 cases for the current period. The citizenship of the aliens involved was 1,361 Mexicans, 7 Canadians, and 17 aliens of other nationalities.

A case developed in May 1966, by Chicago Travel Control illustrated the ready availability and depth of information on file at the Center. Inspection of a passenger arriving from Mexico City and claiming U.S. citizenship was deferred 1 day while a check was made of the records at the Center. The response indicated a false claim to citizenship had previously been made under the name the passenger used. Description of the former claimant included a cut scar on the inside of the left index finger, which led to positive identification of the passenger as the individual who had made the prior claim. Exclusion proceedings were instituted upon receipt of the information from the Center.

A case of interest illustrating the results from use of the Center was developed in the Cleveland District. An investigator questioned a subject regarding his citizenship and was presented a birth certificate indicating birth in Los Fresnos, Tex. The investigator abstracted information from the certificate and later made inquiry of the Center. No record of the certificate was found, but information was under index regarding the affiant named on the certificate, indicating he had previously received $30 for signing as one of the witnesses in creating a fraudulent delayed birth record. The investigator encountered the same subject some weeks later, and when confronted with the information regarding the professional witness, the subject admitted that he was an alien and had assumed the identity of the person named on the certificate. When the subject's true name was checked at the Center, another case was located relating to a prior apprehension in 1964 as a false claimant.

Service efforts to detect false claims to citizenship by Mexican aliens have been aided substantially by the recordkeeping and availability of information at the Fraudulent Document Center. American consulates in Mexico, State registrars, and other agencies have also benefited in lesser degrees from the operation of this facility.

Criminal Prosecution

The United States Attorneys authorized 3,636 prosecutions. Of the 3,496 cases completed, 91 percent resulted in convictions with aggregate sentences of 32,830 months and fines of $103,168.

Of the aliens convicted, 1,476 were convicted of reentry after deportation without permission (8 U.S.C. 1326), and 509 persons were convicted for document frauds (18 U.S.C. 1546). The average sentence in these latter cases was 13 months. There were 307 persons convicted for nationality violations and of these convictions, 306 cases were for false representations as a U.S. citizen (18 U.S.C. 911).

Revocation of Naturalization

Where an alien is granted citizenship through naturalization, and it later appears that such naturalization was based upon fraudulent statements or false documents or was otherwise obtained in an illegal manner, he continues to be a citizen until his citizenship is revoked in judicial proceedings. The naturalizations of only two citizens were revoked by the courts in 1966.

DETENTION AND DEPORTATION ACTIVITIES

The number of aliens deported in fiscal year 1966 under orders of deportation was 9,168. This is 975 less than the 10,143 deported in fiscal year 1965. Among those deported were 483 on criminal, immoral, and narcotic charges.

Among the criminals deported was Maurice Marcel Chavigny, a much-decorated war hero of France. He entered as a visitor in 1955 and 2 years later he was convicted of the murder of Brig. Gen. (Ret.) Wilbur R. Reynolds and his wife. Chavigny was deported to France in May 1966, after being paroled from prison. Other criminals deported this fiscal year upon release from prison were Jean Louis Toupin who had been convicted several times for theft, burglary, larceny, and other crimes; and Thahir Elias Salim who had been imprisoned three times for armed robbery.

Of the aliens deported, 90 percent, or 8,267, had entered without inspection or without proper documents or failed to maintain nonimmigrant status. There were 4,770 deported to Mexico, 964 to Canada, 706 to Greece, 207 to Jamaica, 163 to Italy, 158 to the Dominican Republic, and 117 to Spain.

The number of aliens required to depart without issuance of formal orders of deportation increased from 95,263 in the last fiscal year to 123,683. The number of surreptitious entries doubled rising from 39,068 in 1965 to 78,165 in 1966. In addition to 13,274 crewmen technical violators, 70,899 of those who entered without inspection were permitted to depart without the issuance of formal orders.

The remaining 39,510 were required to depart after issuance of orders to show cause. This number included 7,266 who entered surreptitiously, 29,861 nonimmigrants who failed to maintain the status under which admitted and 2,227 aliens who entered without proper documents. The principal countries to which these aliens were destined were Mexico, 16,989; Canada, 7,626; Dominican Republic, 2,361; Jamaica, 1,078; Philippines, 987; Greece, 627; and Italy, 577.

At their own request, 107 aliens who had fallen into distress were removed from the United States under Section 250 of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Fifty-seven mentally incompetent aliens were deported or removed. Up to the time of deportation, approximately $241,000 had been expended for their care in the United States. If they had continued to remain institutionalized at public expense, over $5,700,000 would have been disbursed for their maintenance and treatment during their expected lifetimes.

There were 35,027 aliens initially admitted to Service detention facilities and 43,041 to non-Service facilities.

HEARINGS AND LITIGATION

Hearings to determine the excludability of a person seeking admission to the United States, or the deportability of an alien after entry, are conducted by Special Inquiry Officers. These are immigration officers specially designated to conduct these proceedings in accordance with the terms and procedures specified in the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Exclusion and Deportation Hearings

Special Inquiry Officers completed 876 exclusion hearings during the fiscal year, including 90 cases with criminal, immoral, or narcotic charges, 13 subversive, and 681 cases in which aliens sought to enter without the necessary documents for admission.

The fiscal year total of deportation hearings referred to Special Inquiry Officers amounted to 17,944, a decrease from the number received in the previous year, but nevertheless representing the second highest total on record for any single year. During this fiscal year the New York District alone accounted for 32 percent of such cases. The number of exclusion hearings referred to Special Inquiry Officers totaled 881, representing an increase as compared to 1965.

The impact of the Act of October 3, 1965, which had a definite effect upon other Service operations, also made itself felt in Special Inquiry Officer activities. With the elimination of the national origins quota system, and the new method for allocation of visas, more visas became available for new and additional classes of aliens originating in countries whose quotas were traditionally and almost permanently oversubscribed. Hence, many aliens under deportation proceedings found themselves in a position to apply for adjustment of status under Section 245 of the Act. This resulted in 1,522 motions addressed to Special Inquiry Officers for reopening of proceedings to permit renewal of, or new applications for relief. This represented an increase of 65 percent over 1965.

The 1965 Act amended Section 249 of the Immigration and Nationality Act by moving forward the date from 1940 to 1948 under which an alien may apply for the creation of a record of admission. Initial applications for such adjustments jumped from 16 in fiscal year 1965 to 240 in 1966.

Another aspect of the 1965 Act is the amendment of Section 243 (h) of the basic Act. This section, permitting withholding of deportation was changed from a requirement of proof of alleged physical persecution as a basis for relief, to proof of persecution (without reference to "physical"), on account of race, religion, or political opinion. During the fiscal year, applications for withholding of deportation on a claim of persecution numbered 302 representing an 18-percent increase as compared with 1965. However, to the list of countries concerning which such claims were made in previous years, now totaling 62, there were added during 1966, Bolivia, Guyana, Guatemala, and Yemen.

Litigation

The major functions of the General Counsel, as chief law officer of the Service, include advising the Commissioner and his staff of operating officials, and conferring with the Solicitor General, the appropriate divisions of the Department and the United States Attorneys concerning litigation.

The Office of the General Counsel, through the four Regional Counsels, maintains professional supervision over Trial Attorneys serving primarily as representatives of the Government in formal exclusion, expulsion, and rescission hearings before Special Inquiry Officers. This Office also represents the Service before the Board of Immigration Appeals; two Appellate Trial Attorneys of the staff being regularly assigned that duty.

The amount of litigation challenging Service determinations has continued upward. In administrative proceedings, Trial Attorneys prepared 1,683 legal briefs and memoranda, 462 (38 percent) more than in the previous fiscal year. The increased appellate work in those proceedings is more emphatically reflected by the Service Appellate Trial Attorneys. These officers prepared 44 percent more cases, with a concomitant increase in presenting oral arguments before the Board of Immigration Appeals, and the preparation of 67 percent more operational memoranda in connection with those cases.

Judicial litigation in the district courts rose to 200 cases from that of 142 the prior year. Of those, only 5 were unfavorable to the Government, and of the 14 (22 in fiscal year 1965) reaching the courts of appeals none were adverse to the Government (9 the previous year). The effect of the Act of September 26, 1961 (Sec. 106, Immigration and Nationality Act; 8 U.S.C. 1105a), designed to eliminate district court review of administrative exclusion and deportation orders by requiring the filing of petitions for review direct to the U.S. courts of appeals, was more pronounced in that 84 cases reached those courts the past fiscal year, only 3 thereof unfavorable to the Government, compared to 57 and 4 in the preceding year.

The number of decisions rendered by the Supreme Court during its last term affecting Service operations was unusually heavy, 16 petitions for certiorari having been denied, 7 granted. In Scalzo v. Hurney, 382 U.S. 849, the Court denied certiorari leaving in effect lower court rulings approving Service regulations, in implementing Section 205 of the Act, prescribing automatic revocation of a visa petition in behalf of a spouse when the petitioner requests withdrawal.

In another case the Court refused to reexamine its decision holding that statutes relating to deportation of aliens are not subject to the constitutional prohibition against ex post facto laws (Fuentes-Torres v. INS, 382 U.S. 846). Where the administrative order of deportation was predicated on the finding that petitioner contracted a marriage for the purpose of evading the immigration laws, the Supreme Court denied review on the claim that hearing was not fair and impartial, in support of which the petitioner cited the holding in Escabedo v. Illinois, 378 U.S. 478, as applicable to his case with respect to his statement taken by an officer of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, no objection having been made thereto at the administrative hearing, but now contended such statement was not voluntarily made (Hamadeh v. INS, 382 U.S. 838).

The Supreme Court in Garcia-Gonzales v. INS, 382 U.S. 840, denied review of a decision by the court below agreeing with the Board of Immigration Appeals that expungement pursuant to Section 1203.4, California Penal Code, of a narcotic conviction did not render the petitioner nondeportable, Section 241(a)(11) of the Immigration and Nationality Act supporting that decision.

To the same effect was the decision in Ramirez-Villa v. INS, 382 U.S. 908. Again, with regard to the same California statute, the Supreme Court left undisturbed the ruling by the Ninth Circuit that a conviction (issuing an insufficient-funds check with intent to cheat and defraud) is within the statutory provision pertaining to deportation (Sec. 241(a)(4), Immigration and Nationality Act), even though the conviction might be subsequently expunged.

A petitioner, confined to prison, declared his intention to return to his native Norway at his own expense and claimed he executed all the forms presented to him by the Immigration and Naturalization Service; that he served the minimum term imposed but the State of California refused to release him. His motion, seeking an order directing his immediate deportation, was denied by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, which pointed out that the relief prayed for was beyond its jurisdiction; further that Section 242(h) of the Act provides that no alien sentenced to imprisonment shall be deported until the termination of such imprisonment. Certiorari was denied by the Supreme Court (Fjellhammer v. People of State of California and the USA, 383 U.S. 923).

In another case in which an alien was serving a sentence in California as a second offender, the alien applied to the U.S. district court for an order that he be taken from State custody and deported under an outstanding warrant of deportation. Because of the specific provisions of section 242(h), the district court denied that application. The Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit denied a similar request on like grounds. The Supreme Court denied certiorari and a rehearing (382 U.S. 883, 934). Lower court rulings adverse to the petitioner were denied review in Masucci v. INS, 384 U.S. 911. There, petitioner sought a writ of habeas corpus to be directed to the warden of the New York State Prison and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, in order to obtain his release from imprisonment and deportation to Cuba, of which he claimed to have become a citizen.

The question presented on certiorari, whether the Special Inquiry Officer exceeded his authority in directing deportation of concededly deportable aliens to countries designated by them, was denied review (Chung Leung et al v. Esperdy, 382 U.S. 891). Left undisturbed was the affirmance by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit of the petitioner's conviction for violation of 18 U.S.C. 101 in making a false and fraudulent statement in a matter within the jurisdiction of the Department of State. On certiorari, petitioner contended that he was previously punished (double jeopardy) because when he applied for naturalization, the Immigration and Naturalization Service found he failed to establish good moral character, relying upon the forged letter as one of the grounds for that conclusion; and that the trial court was without jurisdiction because the letter was sent to a consul (Haddad v. U.S., 382 U.S. 896).

In Rocha v. INS (383 U.S. 927) review was denied of the judgment below (C.A. 1, 351 F. 2d 523), affirming the denial of a certificate of citizenship, sustaining an order of deportation, rejecting the contended unconstitutionality of Section 3, Act of March 2, 1907, which terminated the U.S. citizenship of a woman marrying a foreign national; and pointing out that its constitutionality had been upheld in Mackenzie v. Hare, 1915, 239 U.S. 299, which was relied upon by the Supreme Court in several recent decisions.

Denial of certiorari in Gagliano v. INS (384 U.S. 945) left undisturbed the decision of the Court of Appeals (C.A. 2, 353 F. 2d 922). The alien was deported in 1955 because of a conviction in 1927 for unlawfully selling narcotics. He re-entered the United States as a stowaway in 1958. Deportation proceedings were instituted under Section 241(f) of the Act, predicated upon the 1955 order of deportation. The alien contended that he qualified for suspension of deportation under subdivision (1) of Section 244(a) of the Act on the basis that he had been ordered deported only for making an illegal entry. The court disagreed, finding the substantive ground of deportation to be section 241(a)(11) relating to narcotic violations, hence the provisions of subdivision (2) of section 244(a) had to be satisfied for suspension. The circuit court also held that the 10-year period applicable under subdivision (2) began running from the commission of the last deportable act, here the illegal reentry as a stowaway in 1958.

In a per curiam order, the Supreme Court granted certiorari in Millan-Garcia v. INS, and remanded the case for further consideration. The petitioner first failed to pursue an application for naturalization and an order of deportation ensued for entry without an immigrant visa. The Solicitor General submitted a memorandum to the Court bottomed on the theory that since deportability was premised on unlawful entry, which Congress had declared was not a bar to naturalization under Section 329 of the Act, it would be incongruous to suppose Congress had intended to preclude (notwithstanding the provision of section 318) access to the courts for section 329 applicants because of deportability on that ground.

Left pending for the next October term of the Supreme Court are five cases in which petitions for certiorari have been granted. In Woodby v. INS (No. 825) the question presented is whether the court of appeals erroneously affirmed the deportation orders in light of the petitioner's claim that she engaged in prostitution only for a limited period and under circumstances of financial distress. In Berenyi v. INS, (No. 960), the Court will consider whether the evidence sustained the finding of the trial court that the petitioner, an applicant for citizenship, was not a person of good moral character in that he had falsely denied he had ever been a member of the Communist Party in Hungary.

Sherman v. INS (No. 1090) raises the question whether, in a deportation proceeding against a resident alien, the Government must bear its burden of proof to establish the facts by reasonable, substantial and probative evidence, or as contended by the petitioner, by either "clear, unequivocal and convincing" proof or proof "beyond a reasonable doubt."

In INS v. Errico (No. 898) and Scott v. INS (No. 1007, Misc.) the Supreme Court will consider opposing conclusions on whether the statutory waiver of deportability for misrepresentations for certain relatives of American citizens or resident aliens benefits one whose misrepresentation enabled him to evade the established numerical limitations. The Second Circuit ruled in the negative, finding the alien not "otherwise admissible" as required by the statute (350 F. 2d 279). The Ninth Circuit ruled it in the affirmative, finding that the statutory bounty in such cases was intended to waive numerical limitations (349 F. 2d 541).

ALIEN ADDRESS REPORTS

Under the provisions of Section 265 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, aliens in the United States are required to report their addresses in January of each year. In 1966, 3,482,553 persons so reported. Of this number, 3,088,133 were permanent resident aliens, and 394,420 were in a temporary status. Almost three-fourths of the permanent resident aliens resided in just eight States as shown in the table on the following page.

Each year since 1960, California has crept a little further ahead of New York in terms of resident aliens in the State. In 1940, at the time of the Alien Registration, 1,257,501 aliens were registered in New York; less than half as many, 542,464, were registered in California. However, the westward movement of aliens as well as citizens and the high immigration from Mexico, are two factors that helped reverse the relative positions of these two States in the 1960's. In 1965, the gap between them was 201,751; in 1966, 233,947.

Other States showing increases of 5 percent or more over last year were Florida, where the number of Cubans reporting rose from 38,926 permanent residents in 1965 to 44,251 in 1966; and Illinois, where there were numerous small gains over last year, including 3,800 Mexican nationals, 1,000 Cubans, and 1,500 Polish resident aliens.

CITIZENSHIP

Naturalization Activities

Trends in Naturalization. The downward trend in the number of aliens applying for citizenship, which had persisted since 1962, leveled off during fiscal year 1966, at 148,450, when just 69 more applications to file petitions for naturalization were received than in the preceding year.

By dint of close supervision and a mobile force of naturalization examiners who moved to meet the fluctuating workload, as well as the reduction in the number of naturalization courts, the Service was able to absorb the reduction of 11 naturalization examiners.

Naturalizations Granted. During the fiscal year, Service officers appeared at over 2,000 final court hearings in the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, for the purpose of presenting recommendations regarding the eligibility of aliens for naturalization. At these proceedings, conducted in both Federal and State courts, 103,059 petitioners for naturalization were admitted to U.S. citizenship by the presiding judges; in addition there were 292 repatriations, bringing the total to 103,351. As in years gone by, the great bulk of the new citizens, 76,214, petitioned under the general provisions of the statute, based upon 5 or more years' residence. Next in number, respectively, were the 16,448 spouses and the 7,695 natural or adopted children of U.S. citizens, who became eligible after lesser periods of residence. Others naturalized included 2,561 aliens granted citizenship upon the basis of their honorable military service, and 141 others who qualified for the privilege under special sections of the law.

Noteworthy was the Service effort to bring immediate citizenship to members of the Armed Forces serving in the South Vietnam theater of hostilities. Since aliens cannot be naturalized abroad under the present statute, special expeditious naturalization proceedings and ceremonies were held in Guam. Through the cooperation of the military authorities, qualified servicemen were flown there to receive their well-deserved citizenship. This will be a continuing program of the Service.

The greatest naturalization potential is to be found in the largest nationality groups among resident aliens, and yet this potential is not always realized in the actual number of applications for naturalization. The 7 nationalities with the greatest number of alien residents as reported in 1966 were: Mexico (646,579), Canada (373,045), the United Kingdom (264,559), Germany (235,- 628), Italy (210,649), Cuba (135,617), and Poland (128,200). While some of these aliens may not be eligible for naturalization because they cannot fulfill the residence requirements, it does give an idea of the magnitude of the potential for naturalization. These seven nationalities represent 65 percent of the resident aliens who filed alien address reports in 1966. In contrast just 54 percent of the persons naturalized were nationals of the seven countries listed above. In order, they were as follows: Germany (13,700), Italy (10,983), the United Kingdom (8,928), Canada (8,579), Mexico (5,678), Poland (3,833), and Cuba (3,829).

The fiscal year had its usual quota of cases which, in the public interest, elicited the most expeditious action on the part of the Service and the courts. Special petition filings and court proceedings were arranged to facilitate military enlistments and attendance at officer candidate schools. By similar action, citizenship was made promptly available to foreign-bound servicemen and their dependents, as well as to aliens about to be assigned abroad in connection with important Government projects.

Naturalizations Denied. There were 2,029 persons denied citizenship during the fiscal year, following determination by the courts at final hearings that one or more of the statutory prerequisites for naturalization had not been met. Seventy of these unsuccessful candidates did not have the requisite knowledge of the history, government, and Constitution of the United States, while 71 others were disqualified because they were unable to speak, understand, read, or write the English language. An inability to satisfy requirements related to residence, witnesses, good moral character, attachment to the Constitution, the oath of allegiance, or a willingness to serve in the Armed Forces formed the basis for denial in most of the remaining cases. The overall statistical breakdown was substantially the same as that of former years.

When Service investigations and examinations disclose the ineligibility of the petitioners, they may elect not to appear at the court proceeding by withdrawing or not prosecuting their petitions. Under such circumstances, valuable time is saved by the petitioners, the courts, and the Service.

Of the 2,029 petitions denied, 1,690 or 83 percent were disposed of without a determination on the merits by the courts. A high percentage of these denials involved petitioners unable to meet the educational requirements for naturalization. Acting upon Service advice, many of these candidates will attend courses of study which will overcome their educational deficiencies, thus permitting them to qualify at some future date. Others unable to meet other requirements, were fully advised as to what they must do to achieve eligibility, and a considerable number of them also may eventually realize their desire to become citizens.

Related Naturalization Matters

Citizenship Education and Responsibility. An important aspect of Service operation in the citizenship field is the implementation of programs designed to assist aliens in their preparation to meet the English language and other educational requirements for naturalization. Service officers at the various administrative levels continued to cooperate fully with the educational and military authorities, and the voluntary organizations, in the establishment and maintenance of citizenship classes at public schools and military installations. A new feature of the educational drive during the fiscal year was the liaison maintained with the Office of Economic Opportunity in connection with its adult basic education and urban and rural community action programs, affording an effective basis for directing aliens ultimately toward citizenship.

There were 323,040 immigrants who entered the United States during the fiscal year and, promptly upon their admission, the names and addresses of those old enough to profit by the education were furnished local schools so that they might be extended invitations to attend citizenship education classes. Additionally, to assure maximum attendance by other resident aliens needing instruction and training in connection with naturalization, the school authorities were sent the names and addresses of 32,778 candidates upon receipt of their applications. Throughout the period, 93,925 aliens attended over 4,303 public school classes located in all sections of the United States.

A total of 2,753 aliens, unable to attend citizenship classes, also enrolled in the Service home study courses under the direction and supervision of State universities or State educational authorities. Revised Service textbooks, improved as to size, illustrations, and other content, and specially adapted to this method of learning, were made available to the enrollees.

The fiscal year witnessed the extensive use of the Federal Textbook on Citizenship, a Service publication comprised of separate units especially prepared at different literacy and educational levels to meet the varying study needs of aliens seeking naturalization. More than 121,000 copies of the textbook were furnished gratis to the public schools for use in citizenship classes or were purchased at a reasonable cost through the Government Printing Office. Greatly in demand was the relatively new "Becoming a Citizen Series" consisting of the instructional and study texts "Our American Way of Life," "Our United States," and "Our Government," and a related "Teacher's Guide," which entered its second printing during the year.

For use in furthering citizenship education and responsibility, the Service has various films available for loan to civic and patriotic organizations, and other recognized groups. During the fiscal year, "The American Flag," a film dramatically portraying the history and growth of the significance of our national flag was added to the Service portfolio. A second film entitled "Early Settlers of New England" which, with authentic settings and costumes, pictures the hardships confronting the pioneers of Salem in 1626, and shows how their faith and spirit of cooperation contributed to the successful growth and development of the community.

Two other new films, "The Declaration of Independence by the Colonies" and "The Bill of Rights of the United States" became available for loan. The first of these companion documentaries dramatizes the conditions which led to the adoption of the Declaration while the second, realistically tells of the struggle for human freedom which led to the Bill of Rights. The Service is confident that the new films will contribute materially to the realization of the educational objectives.

The well-being of the Nation is dependent upon the devotion of all citizens to the social and political ideals which govern the American society, as well as upon the constant active participation of all citizens in the affairs of the community. To impress these truths upon persons naturalized during the year, Service officers assisted in arranging impressive, meaningful ceremonies at many final naturalization hearings.

Similarly, on commemorative occasions such as Citizenship Day, Constitution Week, Law Day, and Loyalty Day, other inspirational programs and exercises were planned and conducted through the cooperative efforts of the Service, the courts, public-spirited citizens, bar associations, and other civic-minded and patriotic organizations. Once again, 20,000 copies of "Citizenship Day" and "Constitution Week Bulletin" were made available by the Service, and proved effective in planning the observances.

Derivative Citizenship Activities

Certificates Issued. Certificates were administratively issued to foreign-born persons who established that they had become citizens through derivation. A number of factors have contributed to the relatively high number of applications for derivative certificates in the past several years. The farflung foreign commitments of the United States, which have required servicemen and other Government representatives and their families to be stationed in many parts of the world, constitute a natural potential for citizenship acquired at birth abroad. The Service has furthered the policy of the military authorities of encouraging servicemen to apply for certificates in behalf of their foreign-born children, by holding hearings at military installations. This has accounted for the submission of many applications in this category. Similarly, the Service practice of notifying newly naturalized citizens of the citizenship rights of their children, and of the availability of the certificate, has contributed to the greater number of applications received in the past few years.

Except for the extremely heavy annual volume of the past 3 years, the 32,446 certificates issued during the period exceeded the number granted in any 1 year of the past decade. Documents totaling 16,297 were issued to persons who acquired citizenship at birth abroad to citizen parents, and 15,155 to those who derived the status of citizen through the naturalization of parents. Although citizenship has not been derived upon marriage to a U.S. citizen since 1922, 744 women received derivative certificates upon such basis.

Certificates Canceled. Despite the extensive investigation and comprehensive inquiries conducted by the Service preliminary to the issuance of a certificate of citizenship, fraud in the form of submission of bogus documents or other substantive factors, may be discovered after the certificate is issued. Under such circumstances, the Service is statutorily authorized to conduct proceedings leading to the administrative cancellation of the certificate, and the action may be initiated even though the document may have been issued years before. Certificates of citizenship were canceled in 572 cases during the fiscal year, approximately the same number as in 1965.

Other Citizenship Activities

Nationality and Replacement Documents. Exceeding the annual volume in 1964 and 1965, were the 10,060 applications for special certificates of naturalization for the use of naturalized citizens in proving their status as such to foreign states, or for replacement of certificates of naturalization. There were also many certifications as to information contained in Service naturalization and citizenship records required for use in compliance with Federal and State statutes or judicial proceedings, or for some other legitimate purpose.

Loss of Citizenship. Both native- and natural-born citizens, as well as those who acquire the status through the naturalization process, may lose their citizenship by operation of statutory law. Certain actions described in the naturalization statute, considered inconsistent with the continuance of U.S. citizenship, have this expatriatory effect without any action by the courts. During the fiscal year, 2,000 citizens automatically expatriated themselves by becoming naturalized in or taking an oath of allegiance to a foreign state, by formally renouncing their U.S. citizenship, by voting in a political election, or serving in the armed forces of a foreign state, as well as upon other miscellaneous grounds set forth in the statute. If these former citizens wish to regain their citizenship, they must apply for naturalization like any other alien.

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

Personnel. The employee development and training program was somewhat curtailed during fiscal year 1966. The number of inservice training courses at the Officer Development Center at Port Isabel, Tex., consisted of two 14-week sessions of the Patrol Inspector Trainee Course for 139 trainees, a 2-week course for Senior Patrol Inspectors, and a 3-day Operational Conference for Supervisory Investigators. A total of 103 employees completed a variety of courses conducted by other Government agencies. The Service continued its interagency agreement with the Agency for International Development, and 79 foreign officials from 22 countries were trained in the Service's records administration, border patrol, and travel control activities. Seven persons completed courses in automatic data processing.

Under the program of keeping manpower requirements within the present ceiling, the Personnel Officer worked closely with the Budget Officer and the operating officials of the Service in the Central Office in determining where the manpower needs of the Service were most pressing and those operational areas and geographic locations from which this manpower could best be spared.

One of the most significant programs undertaken involved the planning to meet the increased demands for Patrol Inspectors on the Mexican border. The termination of the Agricultural Act of 1949, on December 31, 1964, caused a marked increase in the number of agricultural laborers, and other workers from south of the border, thus creating a need for more patrolmen to control the influx. Another problem of great concern required the meeting of the increased workload in the adjudication of applications for benefits and privileges sought under immigration and related laws, created for the most part by the amendment of the Immigration and Nationality Act by Public Law 89-236.

During fiscal year 1966, exclusive recognition under the provisions of Executive Order 10988 was granted to employee organizations at four Service offices and supplemental agreements were negotiated with employee organizations at three offices.

Employee participation in the U.S. savings bond program was raised from a Servicewide rate of 45.4 percent to 56.8 percent.

Incentive Awards. During the year, 437 persons were recognized for superior performance or special acts. In addition, 169 employees were granted quality increases. A total of 376 employees' suggestions were received during the year and 62 of these suggestions were adopted.

Procurement and Property Management. Emphasis on the use of greater ingenuity rather than more dollars in meeting both new and recurring obligations is continuing. One example worth noting is the method employed in satisfying a rapidly expanding requirement to transport aliens by bus. After efforts to obtain buses through GSA excess property failed, administrative research uncovered several sources of used buses of the type needed. Nine used buses were subsequently bought from the lowest bidder at a total price not much more than the price of one new bus. The critical need of the Service was thus met—without a request for any additional appropriation.

Another example of increasing efficiency and lowering costs for a recurring procurement cost is the Service Lookout Book. The book is now being computer oriented and it is believed that within 2 months the system will be in full operation. Savings of approximately $3,000 the first year, and $4,500 each year thereafter, as well as a reduction in employee man-hours and an increase in the vitally necessary accuracy will be realized.

Records. Two congressional actions had a substantial impact upon Records Administration and Information functions last year. The first was the passage of Public Law 89-236 (Immigration and Nationality Act) and the other was passage of Public Law 89-97 (Medicare). The new Act had its effect on all areas of Records, but especially on the Information Units. The Information waiting rooms in the larger offices were filled to capacity or overflowing and Service telephones rang continuously after passage of the law. Persons seeking proof of date of birth under the Medicare Program placed a heavy burden upon Service verification centers. The task was made more difficult because of the sketchy information about arrivals that so many older people submitted.

The visas submitted by immigrants at the time of their admission into the United States are placed in active case files opened by the Service files control office having jurisdiction in the area of the immigrant's residence. Case files are also opened on conditional entrants and other persons subject to action by this Service, if a previous file for the individual does not exist. There were 725,064 new files prepared during the fiscal year 1966, a 4.7-percent increase over the number opened in the previous year.

The arrival-departure records containing information regarding each alien's admission and departure are retained permanently in the master index in accordance with the provisions of Section 290(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. Also, in this index there is an index card for each Service case file. The index contains over 44 million cards and almost 4 million cards were added in the fiscal year 1966. In March 1966, the master index was relocated in a separate building in Washington, D.C.

Statistics. To support the management improvement programs in every operation of the Service, the work-measurement system was reviewed and revised in order to supply data on units of work and man-hours that will be the most effective guides to an efficient and smooth-operating organization.

The interest engendered by the Act of October 3, 1965, the most far-reaching legislation since the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952, created a need for greater detail and additional statistics on immigration in relation to the provisions of the new law. Other items of frequent interest were Cuban refugees; adjustment of status of students and exchange aliens in relation to the "brain drain" from the developing countries; admissions and restrictions relating to farm labor and other labor programs; passengers in international travel as such statistics related to cases before the Federal Aviation Administration and the Maritime Commission; and alien tourists and the work of the United States Travel Service. Other statistics compiled included those on alien address reports, deportations, and naturalization.

Management Improvement and Control. The Service has been absorbing workload increases in most Service activities over the past years without increases in personnel. This has been made possible through diligent application of management improvement and control techniques. The usual administrative support activities have been supplemented by heavy emphasis upon work measurement, work simplification, methods and procedures improvements, and audit programs. These efforts have been rewarded by increased productivity and improved service to the public.

Building Program. During the fiscal year 1966 construction projects were completed at five locations to replace substandard facilities at inspection ports. These projects were constructed jointly with the Bureau of Customs. There are currently 13 projects underway to replace or improve inspection stations, adjunct buildings, or employee cottages. These projects are being executed jointly with the Bureau of Customs under prior year contracts. One border patrol station is nearing completion under a contract awarded April 6, 1965.

The construction of a new border patrol sector headquarters and alien detention facility at El Paso, Tex., as a result of the Chamizal Boundary Treaty has been started with transferred funds appropriated to the Department of State. Plans are being worked out for construction by the General Services Administration of new inspection facilities at El Paso, Tex.

During the fiscal year 1966, six border patrol facilities and three inspection stations were completed by the General Services Administration.

In May 1966, the Washington, D.C., District Office was moved to better accommodations at 1025 Vermont Avenue Northwest.

1/ The annual quota for 1964 was 158,161, for 1965 was 158,561 due to the assignment of quotas for newly independent countries. During the transition period P.L. 89-236 the established quota will equal 158,261 with the elimination of the Asia-Pacific Triangle, Jamaica, and Trinidad-Tobago, as quota charges after December 1, 1965.

2/ Figures include adjustment of status cases. Adjustments chargeable to future years are included in year of adjustment.

3/ Admissions with visas issued prior to December 1, 1965.

4/ Includes 667 Section 244 suspension of deportation cases in 1965 and 552 in 1966.

5/ Quotas established by President's Proclamation No. 3570 of January 7, 1964.

TABLE 13. IMMIGRATION BY COUNTRY, FOR DECADES:
1820 - 1966 1/

From 1820 to 1867 figures represent alien passengers arrived; 1868 to 1891 inclusive and 1895 to 1897 inclusive, immigrant aliens arrived; 1892 to 1894 inclusive and from 1898 to present time immigrant aliens admitted. Date for years prior to 1906 relate to country whence alien came; thereafter to country of last permanent residence. Because of changes in boundaries and changes in lists of countries, data for certain countries are not comparable throughout. 7

<sup>1/</sup> Cases of 359 persons expatriated for departing from or remaining away from the U.S. to avoid military service, reported for 1955-1963, were not included because this statutory provision was ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court on February 18, 1963. (Kennedy v. Francisco Mendoza-Martinez (372 U.S. 144) and Rusk v. Joseph Henry Cort (372 U.S. 224)).

<sup>2/</sup> The Supreme Court decision in Schneider v. Rusk (377 U.S. 163, May 18, 1964) ruled as unconstitutional statutory provisions which cause naturalized citizens to lose their nationality by extended residence abroad.

<sup>3/</sup> Naturalized U.S. citizens expatriated in countries with which the United States has treaties or conventions providing on a reciprocal basis for loss of nationality through extended residence in the country or original citizenship.
